COOLIDGE VICTORY IN RADICAL STATE BOOSTS CAMPAIGN

BACKERS ENCOURAGED BY SHOWING IN NORTH DAKOTA.

RETURNS TO FOLD NP Defeat Turns State Back Toward Regular Republican Column.

By DAVID LAWRENCE Copyright 1924 by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington—President Coolidge's victory in North Dakota has had an important effect on the campaign of the chief executive. Winning a primary in a radical state, receiving a plurality as against Senator Charles McNary, and the fact that the Coolidge managers had won the election, may be the trend of politics in other western states, the president has better than an even chance to achieve the nomination with the backing of the so-called radical states.

The North Dakota situation has been exciting interest for several weeks because it has a double significance. Mr. Coolidge's position was at stake, of course, but something more was at stake.

When the rescue workers made their perilous descent, they found the bodies together. The arms of the two dead miners were encircled about each other.

The recovery was made after a rescue crew of six men had braved a descent of 50 feet into the 155 foot level. This crew, headed by Captain Davies and Engineer Frank Platt, has toiled unceasingly since the catastrophe—just six weeks and four days ago.

Did One of Doctor's Admirers Slay Her in Kansas City Home?

Dr. Zee Z. Wilkins.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Kansas City, Mo.—Dr. Zee Z. Wilkins, wealth and property, had many admirers. In an address book found in her home were the names of 45 men, police say.

In that list police hope to find the one who mysteriously slayed her in her home.

Dr. Wilkins was a former wife of Albert W. Markshoff and of Thomas W. Cunningham, millionaire banker of Joplin, Mo.

In her strong box, which could not be found after the crime, was an agreement of trust for $70,000 signed by Markshoff.

The box is also declared to have contained unregistered Liberty bonds and diamonds valued at $100,000.

Jesse James, an attorney, told police he had been retained by Dr. Wilkins several weeks ago to go to Colorado Springs, Colo., where Markshoff now lives, to collect on the bond of trust.

Despite the fact the strong box is missing, police are inclined to the theory that jealousy was the motive for the crime.

B. F. Turpley, named as a frequent visitor to the Wilkins home, was held by the police for questioning, as was Charles L. Wilkins, brother of the slain woman. Another brother, Horace Wilkins, a farmer living near Willard, Mo., is here to aid in the investigation of her death.

These involved a mysterious quarrel when the woman, aged 40, was slain in her home.

The knowledge that Dr. Wilkins had been slain, and the fact that she had been slain in her home, was a great shock to the community.

AMERICAN FORCE IS THREATENED IN HONDURAN CAPITAL

GET OUT, YANKS, TOLD; HERE TO STAY, IS REPLY.

SHIELD LEGATION Not Responsible for Events if Fired on, Bluejacket Word to Latins.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Washington—American bluejackets are to remain in Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, until American lives and property are afforded adequate protection by the Honduran authorities.

Instructions to keep a detachment ashore with an especially watchful eye on the American legation and consulate, within whose confines foreign citizens as well as Americans have gathered during serious revolutionary disturbances, were forwarded to the command of the cruiser, Milwaukee yesterday by the navy department, after consultation with the state department.

The instructions were dispatched by a report was received from Franklin Morales, the American minister at Tegucigalpa, that the de facto government had demanded that 157 men and nine officers of the Milwaukee, landed Wednesday to afford protection to Americans, be returned to the cruiser and asserted that if they remained the Honduran government would accept no responsibility for eventualities.

In reply, Minister Morales said the detachment would remain until the Honduran authorities were able to give the Americans adequate protection and that he would not accept responsibility for the consequences if the United States forces were attacked.

Three hundred and fifty dollars' damage was caused by a fire in the Rock River Cotton company's plant on North River street, Thursday night, the blaze originating from a defective electric motor, it is believed.

Most of the loss was due to water from the sprinkler system, three heads of which were opened up automatically by the heat from the fire.

The fire department, responding to an alarm at 6:20 p. m., found the fire still burning, despite the fact that water was pouring down from three sprinkler heads. The firemen laid 200 feet of hose but were not obliged to use it. The remains of the building at work for more than an hour.

Rum Withdrawal Payments Told in Daugherty Quiz

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Washington—Unfolding a new maze of startling charges having to do with illicit withdrawals of whiskey in 1921, and which involved payments aggregating $200,000, John G. Daugherty, president of the Alvin Drug company of New York, today told the Daugherty investigating committee that the money was "split" six ways.

In brief, this was Gorn's story: "Fifteen dollars a case was paid for permits to withdraw the whiskey. The fifteen dollars, Gorn said, was 'split' this way:

Four dollars a case to the prohibition director of New York (in 1922).

Two dollars a case to Howard Manningham, one of Attorney General Daugherty's friends who had an office in the "little green house" on K. street.

One dollar to the drugist in whose name the whiskey was withdrawn.

One dollar to himself (Gorn).

Fifty cents to Assistant United States Attorney L. J. Spence at New York.

Six dollars and a half to Will A. Orr and Owen Murphy.

Manningham had to split his two dollars three ways, Gorn said Orr told him, and that some of it went to the late Jess W. Smith.

Smith, Attorney General Daugherty's "bumper and friend."

Want Manningham "This committee needs the evidence of Howard Manningham," Senator Daugherty said. "I have reason to believe that there is a conspiracy with the attorney general to spirit Howard Manningham away in Europe, where he cannot be reached."

"I have demanded that Secretary Hughes be asked to furnish the original application for Manningham's passport and that he be caused to be returned."

"I understand he is on the Dawes committee in Europe," Senator Wheeler put in.

"I deny every implication of wrong doing on the part of the attorney general in this proceeding," Mr. Howard said.

"Then I demand you produce Howard Manningham," returned Senator Daugherty.

Howard said he would endeavor to produce Manningham.

"We will bring him here if we can," Howard explained. "We don't want any implication that we are suppressing evidence."

The committee was suppressing evidence to Mr. Daugherty, he said. Wheeler told him he had "uttered a lie."

"We're getting pretty low," said Howard.

"And you know it is a falsehood," continued Wheeler.

In the ensuing discussion, Wheeler told Howard that "framed up evidence" was being used.

COUNSEL DECLARES SENATORS HAVE NO RIGHT OF INQUIRY

LEASE CANCELLATION ORDER ENDED SENATE'S JURISDICTION.

WORDY CONFLICT Committeemen Hotly Defend Action in Seeking All Information.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Washington—The right of the oil companies to proceed with the inquiry into the lease of Teapot Dome and related subjects was challenged today by counsel for Harry F. Sinclair when he returned to the witness stand for questioning about his possible relations to the dramatic disclosures of recent weeks.

Attorneys for the operator based their objection on the Walsh resolution adopted by Congress directing annulment of the oil leases. They pointed out that the resolution declared the leases were made under circumstances indicating fraud and corruption, and said that if this be true the committee had ascertained what it was directed to ascertain.

"End to jurisdiction." In a four-page statement immediately after the witness was called to the stand, Martin W. Littleton of the Sinclair counsel contended that, by the resolution, Congress not only had brought to an end the jurisdiction of the committee but that it "had defined the policy of the committee."

After deliberating since Thursday afternoon, the jury in the $250,000 fire damage suit of the Edgerton Highway Trailer company against the Janesville Electric company was still deadlocked late Friday afternoon. The special jury, charged by the court to answer questions to the plaintiff, was given to the jury at 3:30 p. m. Thursday.

After the supper hour the jury was brought back and at 10:45 had not reached a verdict.

The most encouraging sign for a verdict was when the court ruled the jury in the morning the jury, housed in a hotel. A request was made for "five more minutes," which was granted by the court. The first woman, having questions to answer as petitioner for the plaintiff, was given to the jury at 3:30 p. m. Thursday.

COBBAN WILL PUSH HEARING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Madison—There will be no compromise in the dismissal of Alex J. Cobban, former state automobile registration clerk, John Baker, Cobban's attorney, declared today. Reports were current about the capital that Cobban may withdraw his application to the civil service commission for a public hearing.

All of the specific charges launched against Cobban by Secretary of State Zimmerman, in a letter to the commission, can be explained and refuted, Mr. Baker said.

He stated that there is no intention on the part of Cobban to seek a settlement in the case before the public hearing on April 2.

WITH THE FARMERS

Farm Bureau Official Information

C. T. A. GILT EDGE DAIRY INVESTMENT

Pierce County Organizes Five Testing Associations With Success.

Ellsworth.—Five cow testing associations are helping keep the farmers of Pierce county informed as to their herd production and profits.

Pierce county is one of the few counties in the northwest that can boast of five such associations. The existence is sufficient proof that the farmers realize the importance of testing.

"In Pierce county live some real boosters of cow testing," says E. G. Sutton, supervisor of cow testing work in the western counties. "Among them are the Johnson brothers, who farm up on Norwegian Ridge between Spring Valley and Ellsworth. They don't want any new idea that is presented, and they were a long time getting into the Spring Valley Cow Testing association. Now that they are members, it probably would be just as hard to get them out as it was to get them in. Why? Because testing has made their dairy herd more profitable.

Cult the Herd.
"The first year they were in the association they sold about 100 pounds of their cows as 'boarders,' seven out of the 21 to be exact," according to Sutton. "When the milk sheet, the test, and the feed cost books were explained, they discovered those seven weren't as good as they looked, and those cows took their departure from the Johnson farm."

The next year the Johnsons continued with 17 cows left, and to their surprise they got more butterfat from the 17 than they had obtained the previous year from the 21. They had changed their feeding methods somewhat and, of course, were giving the herd better care as they had more time with seven fewer cows in the herd.

Cut Feed Costs.
An examination of feeding costs was also an eye-opener. The first year, it cost them 23 cents to produce a pound of butterfat when they fed mixed hay, mostly timothy. The next year they added some oil meal and bran to the ration, and the cost dropped to 21 cents per pound. The third year they quit feeding mixed hay entirely, substituting alfalfa, and the feed cost dropped to 14 cents per pound of butterfat. The decline in the value of feeds contributed slightly to the decrease in cost, but the big decrease was traceable to better feeding.

During that same period of better feeding and better care, one cow increased her production from 114 to 200 pounds of butterfat; another from 223 to 457 pounds; and another from 124 to 403 pounds. "The maturity of the cows was a factor, of course, but good feeding was the main reason." Just talk to the Johnson brothers now about dairying," says Sutton. "and you'll hear them say that a membership in a good cow testing association is a self-interest investment, and that alfalfa is the forage that helps fill the pail and reduce production costs."

POOL TO BUY SEED IN GREEN LAKE CO.

More than 100 Green Lake farmers have already ordered their soy bean seed for the 1924 planting season.

According to James Lacey, county agent, most of these beans will be of the Manchou variety, and at least 1,500 bushels of the seed will be needed to supply the existing demand.

He reports that in variety demonstration plot tests in the town of Seneca last season the Manchou soyas were superior to any of the other medium early varieties insofar as yield of forage per acre were concerned. Because of the leafy characteristics of this variety it will generally produce a higher tonnage per acre than will some of the other medium early strains. For hay purposes the Manchou is unequaled in general Wisconsin counties.

"In addition to the large acreage to be planted to Manchou," says Lacey, "scores of farmers will use the home-grown Itan seed. A total of at least 1,500 acres will be planted to soy beans in the county this spring."

FLOCK RETURNS $4.48 FOR $1 FEED COSTS

Hales Corners.—August J. Paul is putting his flock of 475 Single Comb White Leghorns up against any similar flock in the state.

During the month of February he received a total egg production of 7,161 eggs, an average of 15.08 eggs per bird. These were quality eggs for which he received 27 cents per dozen on the Milwaukee market. He fed the flock $75.83 worth of scratch and mash and sold the eggs for $340.15, making a return of $264.32 over feed. The feed cost per hen was 16 cents, making a return of $4.48 for every dollar spent for feed.

3 CONTESTS IN CITY ELECTION

Four Aspirants for Three Council Seats—Two Supervisors Opposed.

With no "dark horse" candidates developed in the closing hours, the four-day filing period for candidates for the municipal election, Tuesday, April 1, ended Thursday afternoon. A check-up at the closing hour showed only three contests assured for the city election. Three women are listed as candidates and 14 men.

There are four aspirants for the three positions of councilman-at-large which become vacant this year and contests for supervisor are recorded in only two wards. Four candidates for school commissioner and five for supervisor are running for re-election without any opposition.

Those who filed late Thursday were: Harry P. Jones, candidate for councilman; A. J. Walker, for supervisor in the first ward; and W. J. Hennings, for school commissioner in the fourth.

Three Highest Elected
The four candidates for the city council are: Mrs. Emma H. Manning and George A. Jacobs, present incumbents; Bernard Palmer and Harry P. Jones. With three offices to be filled, every voter will be given opportunity to cast ballots for three of the four candidates and the three getting the highest number of votes will be declared elected for two-year terms.

In the third ward, Supervisor E. D. McGowan is opposed by William O'Connell for re-election; while in the sixth, Supervisor W. J. Jones has a position in Roy Eller, an ex-service man.

The final municipal ticket follows:
CITY-AT-LARGE
Councilman—Harry P. Jones, 616 South Main street.
Councilman—George A. Jacobs, 321 South Second street.
Councilman—Bernard M. Palmer, 320 Jefferson avenue.
Councilman—Emma H. Manning, 312 North Washington St.
School commissioner—Stelen M. Sutherland, 222 South Second St.

FIRST WARD
Supervisor—George Woodruff, 1122 Olive street.

SECOND WARD
Supervisor—M. P. Richardson, 329 Prospect avenue.

School commissioner—Francis C. Grant, 325 Cornelia street.

THIRD WARD
Supervisor—E. D. McGowan, 711 Milwaukee avenue.

Supervisor—William O'Connell, 15 Marshall place.

FOURTH WARD
Supervisor—J. A. Dealing, 711 School street.

School commissioner—W. J. Hennings, 473 North Second street.

FIFTH WARD
Supervisor—A. J. Walker, 327 Center avenue.

SIXTH WARD
Supervisor—W. J. Jones, 102 Forest Park boulevard.

Supervisor—Roy Eller, 227 Jefferson avenue.

School commissioner—Alice H. Holmes, 430 East street, south.

SEVENTH WARD
Supervisor—L. A. Maricham, 515 Blackhawk street.

Constable W. B. Dulin filed as a candidate for re-election from the fifth ward, purely as a formality to protect himself in case it should develop that constables are elective, and not appointive by the city manager, as the city attorney has held. He was advised to do so by the city manager, who said he would consider the nomination paper as an application for the office.

Film Exchange Will Cooperate with Federation

Any co-operation from the women who comprise the moving check-up committee recently named by the City Federation of Women will be appreciated by the United Theatrical Exchange, which controls the booking of pictures for all Janesville theaters, according to C. J. Goetz of that company. Mr. Goetz stated that he will be glad to screen any picture for this committee previous to its presentation to the Janesville public, if at any time the committee feels that a picture is questionable.

"If at any time the women of Janesville wish to put on a benefit picture or run Saturday morning entertainments for school children or 4 p. m. matinees, I will be glad to give them every possible assistance," Mr. Goetz stated.

In the past Mr. Goetz says he has not received much support from the club women of Janesville on really worthwhile pictures. Often, he says, he has presented educational films which were not appreciated by the theatergoers, for instance the splendid historical series presented by the Yale University Press, entitled "Chronicles of America."

FIND HUMOR IN FIRE

Neutrophing, Prusala—German cartoons and humorists were provided with a new subject recently and worked it for some time. It was the destruction by fire of a factory where fire extinguishers were made.

MADISON FIRM IS LOW ROAD BIDDER

Fess Bids Bottom on Three Walworth County Highway Jobs.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Elkhorn—Fess, Madison contractor, was the low bidder to construct with concrete the seven and one-half mile stretch on the Walworth-Darien highway, when 16 bids were opened here Thursday afternoon by the county highway committee. Fess bid $130,342.50, compared with the following three, which were the next lowest: Webb and Dixon, $130,861.50; Whitewater Bridge company, $132,714.78; and E. R. Birdsell, Racine, $133,424.11.

The Madison contractor was also low on the work for the Darien-Atkins Grove road job, having completed last year, bidding $8,295.36. Fess was low on the Walworth-Fox Foot job of two and one-half miles, bidding $57,897.08. Russell Brothers, Superior, were next lowest, offering to do the work for $67,564.21.

The jobs are the first to be let in Walworth county this year, the end of which will see the entire program financed by the $3,250,000 bond issue authorized in 1919 carried out. The prices are considered unusually low.

ESCAPE FROM JAIL YOUTH IN SPEEDY

Young Swiss, Accused of Automobile Theft, Flees Monroe Officer.

Broadhead—Anyone having knowledge of the whereabouts of Kunz, 21, is asked to notify Marshal Roy M. Ties, Broadhead.

Kunz was last seen Wednesday night making great speed away from the Broadhead city lockup, where he was being taken by Marshal Ties after being recaptured following his escape from the Monroe police.

Kunz, a Swiss youth arrested here last November for theft of an automobile and believed at that time to be connected with the Beloit liquor ring, took advantage of the occupation of Marshal Ties in opening the jail door, slipped from his grasp and escaped. Ties and Nelson, McCread, who were on duty, were fast on his pursuit but Kunz was fast on his feet. He came back towards the jail to get his automobile, which was believed to have been stolen and led to arousing the suspicion of the Monroe officers. Kunz did not succeed in getting away with the automobile, but made good his escape in the darkness.

At Monroe, Kunz previously had attempted to escape from the city lockup and had been taken to the courthouse to compare the prints.

Spring Arrives with Cold Wind and Light Snow

The vernal equinox—beg your pardon, Spring—is here. In fact, it has been here for just a little more than 24 hours.

The time of the year that brings gentle breezes, buds, leaves, flowers and oozes is with us. The sun crossed the equator at 2:29 p. m., Thursday, and winter was over.

But, as a last kick, the Old Man of cold weather blew his cold breath Thursday night and left a light covering of snow that melted quickly. Friday, more snow may be expected, however.

Spring came with 22 degrees of temperature at 8 a. m., Friday; 35 at noon, and 36 at 2 p. m.

Kock river has gone down until now it is 2 above the "boll."

TWO MORE HELD IN LIQUOR RAIDS

Beloit—The Police and Frank T. Kock, Beloit soft drink proprietors, were held for trial on charges of selling liquor, after preliminary hearings Friday before Judge John H. Clark, in municipal court. The two were among the 11 rounded up in a one day cleanup of Beloit soft drink parlors.

The Wagon Wheel

By WILLIAM PATTERSON WHITE.
Copyright 1923 by Little, Brown and Company, Boston. Serial rights from Medicine News paper syndicate.

"I do," said Dolly. "I saw 'em. They're in the back of the wagon. That's why I came. 'Thorn back' yet. Not yet."

"I thought he wouldn't be. He was out pretty deep and hard. Sit down, Mom, sit down and I'll make you a cup of coffee. You always used to like some about this time of day."

"I'll be like old times," said Mom, her faded eyes filling with the tears of the unending sentimental. "How—how you been?"

"Fine. Boys treating you all right?"

Was then that constraint descended upon Mom—a constraint that Dolly sensed at once. Yet it was not because Mom, hogged an answer. She didn't. She pulled on the turn. The boys knew how to treat me all right. I guess they'd better."

Dolly made no further remark till the coffee was steaming in a pot on the table. Dolly seated herself behind and to the side of Mom, whose back was to the window. It was an awkward position for the purpose of chat unless Mom turned the cushions. Mom's chair legs scraped and the stretchers creaked. Mom turned. The light was full on her face.

"I thought so," said Dolly, making no move to pour for herself.

"What?" Mom asked and snatched her lips over the fragrant liquid.

"I thought I saw it when I came in, but I wasn't sure. You turned around so quick. Yes, I mean your black eye. Oh, you needn't turn your face away, Mom. You did a good job with your hand, but it's green around the edges still. Dolly's arm shot across the table. She grasped Mom by the wrist. "Who gave you that eye?"

"The effect was more than she had intended for. Mom snatched her wrist away with a moan. Dolly was around the table in a flash. She seized Mom's hand and fingers and pushed her sleeve up her arm. Mom's wrist and forearm were black and blue, scratched and abraded.

"This was done intentionally—some time after that eye," Dolly said accusingly. "That's none of the boys' work. Tell me, Dolly, isn't it?"

"Tell me, Dolly, isn't it?" Mom stared at Dolly with wide, frightened eyes. "Yes," she said huskily. "He did it."

"I knew it," said Dolly triumphantly, feeling in her waist to make sure that the sash was fastened. "I knew he was coming here off and on. When does he come here—night?"

"Yes."

Dolly's eagerness made her almost breathless. She shook from head to foot. She thrust her face close to that of her aunt. "When is he coming again?" she demanded harshly.

"He was here four days ago," replied Mom. "He said two weeks, anyhow. That'll make ten days."

"Ten days?" Dolly asked. "Then where was he?"

"I don't know," said Mom, looking over her mouth and cast a scared-rabbit glance out of the window.

"Don't talk about it," begged Mom. "Don't I—I guess you better go, Dolly."

The girl impatiently thrust away her aunt's hand. "I'm not going, Mom. Not until I get what I came for."

"What you came for? What you mean?"

"I mean I know you know where Pap is. Where he hangs out day-times. And I want you to tell me where that is."

"What you going to do?"

"What do you suppose I'm going to do?" That man snatched my fiddle, killed my dog, beat me with a whip, and tried to murder me into the bargain. And you ask me what I'm going to do? What do you suppose I'm going to do? I'm going to kill him. That's what I'm going to do!" Dolly seized Mom by the shoulders and shook her. "Tell me where he is!"

"I dussent! I dussent!" sobbed

Dinner Stories

Several months ago Governor Hyde of Missouri was on a speaking tour through the Ozarks. He was accompanied by a newly elected official, who had every occasion to be the center of attention. He delivered a speech requiring one and one-half hours, which bored everybody except the speaker. The governor finally was compelled to resort to drastic measures.

"I am sure everyone enjoyed the delightful speech of Mr. Hyde," said the governor, when his time came to speak. "However, I am reminded of the woman who went to a jewelry store to buy a clock."

"This clock," said the salesman, pointing to one on the shelf, "will run eight days without winding."

"I wonder," spoke the woman, "how long it would run if you wound it?"

Brown came home from the office, hung up his coat and hat and looked around for Mrs. Brown.

"Oh, Alice," he called, but there was no reply. He walked out to the kitchen, but she wasn't there. Then he went to the stairs and called up the stairs.

"Here I am, Dick," came a faint voice.

Brown went up stairs and found Mrs. Brown in a bedroom closet with her head bent over an old trunk.

"Well, what on earth are you trying to dig up out of that old trunk?" Brown demanded.

"Oh, Dick," the Mrs. answered, "do you remember where I put that picture of Aunt Alice?"

Dick thought over the matter for a moment. Then:

"For heaven's sake!" he exclaimed. "Is she coming to see us again?"

Pan Oysters—Put 25 oysters in a colander and wash by pouring cold water over them. Allow them to drain for 10 minutes. Then add sugar, salt or the oyster liquor with this dish. Put an iron frying pan over a quick fire to heat and as soon as it is hissing, lay the oysters in the pan and shake into the fire and sugar, salt and the add salt and pepper and a piece of butter the size of a walnut. Serve in a hot dish immediately.

Brazilian Salad—Take equal quantities of shredded pineapple, apples cut in small pieces, and celery cut in small pieces. Then remove the skin and seeds from an equal quantity of white grapes and cut them in halves. Shake into the salad and sugar mix. Add one-third cup of whipped cream beaten until stiff.

Apricot Delight—Wash and soak one cup of dried apricots and steam until soft. At the same time, spread through a coarse strainer or colander and add one-third of a cup of powdered sugar. Beat the whites of three eggs until very stiff and fold them into the apricot mixture. Bake in a shallow pan for 15 minutes. Season the whole with lemon juice and mix thoroughly. Serve with mayonnaise dressing to which has been added one-third cup of whipped cream beaten until stiff.

Begin Taking Sifts If You Feel Back-ache or Head-ache

Too much rich blood forms fields which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urines, wash the kidneys with millions of tiny water-drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

This famous Sift is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help cleanse and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Gude's Sift is inexpensive and makes a beautiful effervescent beverage for a few days and your kidneys may feel fine and bladder disorders disappear.

Take all these hints of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

JOKE BRINGS COOLNESS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 17 years old and attending high school. One of my girl friends told me I wasn't cool enough to be popular with boys. She herself was crazy about a certain fellow. Just for fun I thought I would try being frivolous and see if I could get them.

Since then she has been very cool to me. I told her I was only frivolous in fun and had no desire to go with that particular boy, but she won't let me go. I have been doing nothing to make him go with me and he is still going with her.

Do you think she had any real reason to be angry at me, or jealousy? NOBODY'S DARLING.

Your girl friend does not seem to be able to take a joke. Since you had no intention of hurting her or cutting her out of her sweetheart, it seems to me she ought to laugh and forget the whole matter. Try to forget it yourself and I think before long she will be just as good a friend as she was formerly.

LOVE VS. FRIENDSHIP
Dear Mrs. Thompson: A great many of my friends belong to a history club which has interested me for long time. I have been voted in new members because their membership had dropped.

He Is Looking 'Em Over Again
"Eight years of stomach and liver trouble reduced me to a walking skeleton. My skin was dried up and as yellow as a twenty-dollar gold piece. I was filled with gas and had severe pains in my right side. I could not think and had lost all ambition to do anything. Doctors' medicine did not touch me. My cousin advised May's Wonderful Remedy, which I bought and took. I gained sixty pounds, eat like a bird and am looking 'em over again."

It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and all the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis, colic, flatulence, constipation, and indigestion. For sale at People's Drug Company and druggists everywhere.

JOINT EASE for Stiff, Swollen Joints

Rheumatic or Otherwise

Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fall to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make a man's joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twinged, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in, through skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for all ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at druggists everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

ACQUITTAL VERDICT IN SPEEDING CASE

Jury Finds for Defendant Swanson After Half Hour's Deliberation.

Thirty minutes' deliberation by a six-man jury in the Walter Swanson automobile speeding case, Wednesday afternoon, resulted in the bringing in of a verdict of acquittal and the defendant was discharged by the court. The case attracted considerable interest because of the defendant's position as a city water department employee and also because of the controversy involved by his request for a jury trial.

Two policemen testified that Swanson was traveling 30 to 35 miles an hour on Milton avenue and East and West Milwaukee streets at 2:45 a. m. Sunday, March 18.

On the other hand, the defendant and four others with him in the car at that time testified that they did not exceed a speed of 15 miles an hour. They declared they took particular care to watch the speedometer because they knew Patrolman George Porter was following them in a city car.

City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham prosecuted the case, while J. G. McWilliams was Swanson's attorney.

Witnesses for the city were Patrolmen Porter and W. H. Smith, who testified for the defense were Walter Swanson, Earle Everson, Laverne Partridge, Arthur Koebler and Clarence Johnson.

The jurors were Charles Carpenter, Harry Ziegler, W. C. St. Clair, Charles Beers, H. A. Moerser and Calvin Rose.

Dim Your Lights to Avoid Arrest

Attention of Wisconsin motorists is called to the Illinois law, which requires motorists to dim their lights upon passing another car at night.

A letter received by the local police department from Julius V. Dalz, Waukegan, Ill., head of the commission of public health.

"We hope you will consider this a convenience to the motorists, as it is no pleasure for this department to make arrests, which would no doubt have to be done if the law is not abided by the law," writes Mr. Dalz.

The section of the Illinois motor vehicle law, emphasized by him is: "On approaching another car at night, proceed in an opposite direction and when within not less than 250 feet of same, any person in charge of a motor vehicle equipped with electric headlights or headlights shall dim, drop or extinguish such headlight or lights."

Delay Action in Lake Mills Death

Lake Mills—Probability that no further action in the murder case of Selma Koster would be taken until after election was expressed here Friday by Marshal Albert Hein, who holds a warrant for the arrest of the girl on a first degree murder charge.

Mr. Hein said District Attorney Otto Kuenzli did not wish to handle the case until after election and that he had not arrested the girl because he saw no reason why she should be confined in jail any longer than necessary. The marshal, however, expressed surprise that the case had been so long delayed.

Mr. Kuenzli is understood to be busy with his campaign for circuit judge.

CITY CARRIERS DON'T SELL POSTAGE STAMPS NOR REGISTER MAIL

City mail carriers do not sell stamps or stamped paper, insure parcels or letters, or sell special delivery stamps. It is stated by postal authorities.

The question was raised by the city mounted carrier, who covers the Spring Brook and Monterey sections of the city, who has been doing these things for patrons and has consequently found his mail so heavy that he cannot complete his work in time allowed for him to serve patrons his route. He will hereafter do only the work of any city carrier. Postal rules require him only to deliver all mail on his route, and to collect such mail as he finds, properly stamped, in street letter boxes.

Patrons on city route 15 are required to provide themselves with stamped envelopes, and must get their money orders and register and insure letters and parcels at the post office or at one of the sub-stations.

Patrons are required to sell stamps and stamped paper and money orders and to register letters.

WILL TURN TAX ROLL OVER TO COUNTY

City Clerk-Treasurer A. J. Olsen is making a final check-up on 1933 real estate tax returns preparatory to turning the delinquent tax roll over to County Treasurer A. M. Church Saturday afternoon. A number have taken advantage of their last chance to pay this week with only the 3 per cent penalty. After Saturday the additional charges on delinquent taxes amount to considerably more.

WINE CHEAPER THAN WATER Budapest—Water has become more expensive than wine in Budapest because of the special war taxes imposed to increase the city's income.

POOR SERVICE ON PHONE OFTEN LAID AT DOOR OF USER

Madison—Wisconsin telephone patrons make similar complaints to those made by subscribers of other states, according to John A. Pratt, secretary of the Wisconsin State Telephone association, who today announced the results of a survey of telephone practices that caused poor service.

"It would be well to emphasize that all the mistakes in telephone service are not due to poor operating," the report stated. "The big percentage of mistakes are made by the calling party, either by trusting to memory for the number, passing it without making sure it is correct, or transporting digits."

"Many patrons seem to think that the transmitter and receiver get less appendages to a telephone station and talk everywhere except into the mouthpiece and put the receiver somewhere except to the ear."

Subscribers also cause many troubles by continually nagging operators, the survey report states.

WHO KNOWS 'EM? SURELY IT WAS NOT YOU, AGGIE!

What two Janesville girls were recently in New York? And where did they see the "Polles of 1934?"

Such are the questions that arose in the mind of Ralph H. Meade, former Janesville dweller and popular saxophone player, but who now is in New York city. Ralph's query comes from the following clipping from a New York newspaper, which he sent to a Janesville friend:

"Two Janesville (Wis.) girls recently came to New York to see the sights. They had been here several days and hadn't made much progress in finding in the places of interest, when they ran across a friend from their home town. They told her of bus rides they had taken in Fifth avenue and the trolley trips, but they had lost much time, they complained."

"Why didn't you use the subway?" asked the friend.

"The subway?" they exclaimed in unison. "We're afraid of the subway. We haven't been down in it at all. We're not quick enough for that."

"Astounded, the friend drew from them that their impression of the subway had been formed from a scene in a road edition of the 'Polles of 1934.' In this, a man carrying a big lunch basket and a fishing pole was trying to get his wife and six children aboard a train at Times Square. Every time the man would get in the car, the wife would bang against his fishing pole, and if his wife got in some of the kids would fall to the floor. Then they'd have to rush to the other end to get out again or the crowd would trample the family and scatter them in panic. Eventually the train pulled out, the lunch basket fell on the platform and the weeping mother and two children left behind."

"So I'd be no subway for the Janesville girls. They weren't quick enough."

Does anybody know these girls?

ADAMS FIRST IN PLAY PROMISES

New Forms of Home Play Activities Pledged for 215 Children.

Home play pledges collected by five schools have been turned over to the Gazette since the close of the Play Week campaign. These pledges embrace activities that will benefit 215 different children. Activities pledged total 225.

Adams school, Janesville, has the best record reported thus far. Pledges affect 104 children and embrace a total of 50 suggestions to be carried out in different homes. One mother wrote a note to the teacher saying she would hereafter arrange to play one hour every day with her little son. Another mother wrote: "I am very much in favor of playing games with the children in the evening. We play and tell stories and it is very interesting to act out the different stories."

Music Most Favored

Only about half of the parents designated their choice of suggestions in the interest of home play, but as all pledged themselves to carry out at least two suggestions, this number was credited on the undesignated pledges.

The suggestion that received the highest number of pledges was the one pertaining to music in the home for the children. The suggestion embraced the providing of a musical instrument, phonograph, music records for children, or music lessons.

Twenty-four families signed up to carry out some portion of this suggestion.

Next in popularity was the suggestion calling for equipment for outdoor games, which drew 21 pledges. Children's gardens are to be made possible in 18 families, while 10 families are to have pets of some kind hereafter. New equipment for indoor table or floor games is to be provided in 12 families.

Five Promise Studio Sets

Nine pledges designated as one suggestion to be carried out, the preparation of a play space, indoors or outdoors. Seven and boxes are to be provided for little children and eight workshops are to be equipped. Children of eight different families are to have equipment for outdoor life, such as camping, swimming and hiking.

BENNETT HERE TO WORRY LAX ONES

State Auto License Inspector Has New Method of Getting Results.

Janesville motorists who dared to brave the streets Friday driving cars bearing 1933 license tags were not only confronted by police, who required them to show proof that they had applied for new licenses, but C. Bennett, state auto license inspector, was also in town to make things uncomfortable to the delinquent ones.

"I find the laxity in getting new tags about the same as it has been in other years," said Mr. Bennett, who came here late Thursday afternoon after an inspection jaunt in Whiteside, "but we will be getting after them harder and intend to get cleaned up right away."

Many cars tagged

Paying the way to obtaining better results in his work this year, Mr. Bennett is equipped with a supply of yellow tickets which he attaches to cars, trucks or busses violating any of the provisions of the state motor vehicle law. Each ticket lists nine violations and the one which is applicable to the car tagged is checked in red and the owner is instructed to comply with the law at once and avoid arrest.

The cards read as follows:

"STATE OF WISCONSIN—

"To owner of License No. — you are violating the state motor vehicle law for the reason checked below. Please comply with the law at once and avoid arrest."

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

GEORGE LEVINS, one of the great basketball players of the University of Wisconsin, and a member of the old Lakota, is a member of the Milwaukee team. He was the first two weeks. George was chief referee at the Milwaukee basketball tournament. He started Friday as referee of the state Y. M. C. A. independent basketball meet. Next week he will be chief referee of the state high school basketball meet at the University of Wisconsin. George makes mistakes, just as everybody does, and at least once in a while he makes them less often than many officials for this style of sport.

FANS who saw the games of the Milwaukee basketball tournament had their fill of sensations. Coach George Crandall made a great selection of teams for they put up real competition almost all the way through. There were more evenly matched squads at this meet than in many tournaments of the present season. The spirit of each player was to play hard and to show its stuff. The teams that appeared in the finals—Milton Union and Broadhead—had to battle to get there and they earned the right.

FOUR big high school basketball tournaments were held in Wisconsin the past week. These tournaments affected many towns directly and many more indirectly. Thousands of families were interested in the results. The only newspaper in the state to carry full reports on the Milwaukee, Broadhead, Watertown, and Milton college meets was the Gazette. This newspaper was the only one to carry complete box scores on the games of these tournaments. In addition the Gazette gave its readers the complete results of every tournament in the state so that they had spread before them a word picture of the full situation. One Madison newspaper sent a reporter to Watertown and kept him there three days, yet it did not have so full a report as given by the Gazette's regular resident correspondent at Watertown, and failed to carry all the box scores. The Gazette was the only paper that gave every detail of the Broadhead meet. When you want the news of what is happening anywhere in the sport world read the Gazette.

TRIMS BROADHEAD, PAUL STANDS OUT, HUB FIVE THIRD

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milton Union won the championship of the Milton college basketball tournament by defeating Broadhead 21 to 10 Thursday night. John Paul regained the form which won him a place on the all-around team at Watertown and with eight baskets from all angles of the floor. The result was never seriously in doubt after the first few minutes of play showed sensational floor work of the Milton team. Stoughton won third place.

Union led at the first quarter, 4-2. They kept consistently scoring, but scored once on spectacular dribble from one end of the floor to the other. Broadhead trailed at the half, 21-7.

The second half was a runaway for Union but not without contending with fierce guarding and a determined fight from Broadhead. Injuries to some extent hampered especially put up good fight.

The Union guards smothered the short-pass system displayed by their opponents, aided greatly by hard work of their front line of defense. Union's scores came largely as a result of fast dribbling and clever passing while traveling rapidly and seemed to be unstoppable although watched closely.

Has No Substitute

There's no substitute for Kraft Cheese. You'll hear the same old bunkum, "just as good," "just the same as Kraft Cheese," etc., but that sort of talk means just what it always has meant; that you are going to get something different unless you insist upon having what you called for. Why accept the "just as good" when you can have the real thing?

CARR'S HOUSEWARMING SALE

The Merrick Dairy Co.

Serve Carr Brothers Groceries With Merrick's Milk and Cream

After an exhaustive study of the field, Carr Brothers have selected this modern dairy to supply all of the milk and cream for their two stores. This selection was made by them on the basis of merit. Their desire was to have the best possible product in each and every line to offer to their customers.

Due consideration was given the three big things that make for a better product in the dairy business. First, came:

Quality—"How Good Is Merrick's Milk?"

Merrick's Milk is supplied by farmers who have high grade herds, the majority of them being tuberculin tested. The milk is pasteurized according to modern and sanitary methods, and is only bottled after a series of rigorous tests have been made of each batch to insure uniform high quality. The second consideration is—

Service—"What Kind of Service Can You Render Us?"

Our reputation for service to all our customers—whether they are on our regular routes or are one of the many retail groceries that we serve—is one of unbroken faithfulness. Our readiness to respond to unusual conditions and our ability to meet these conditions as they arise, is a matter of remark among all of these people. And the third consideration was—

Permanence of Supply—"Can We Depend on the Supply of Your Milk as Well as the Quality and Your Service?"

We have one business—that of supplying our demand with milk, cream, butter, cottage cheese and buttermilk. We specialize on these products and are devoting our entire time to satisfying the ever increasing demand for them. Our sources of supply are plentiful and we have an untapped reserve to fill any unusual demand or to cover any unforeseen condition.

You will find many other grocers in Janesville who sell our milk and cream and who also considered these same factors just as Carr Brothers have done. We have demonstrated their truth in every instance.

Our field is large and we are constantly growing and expanding to include more and more people and concerns that want our high quality products.

It is true of the dairy business as of any other business that success is attained through service, and business is kept by performance and not promise.

There is a wealth of satisfaction in the fact that we can go to any one of the thousands of Merrick customers and find them more than well pleased with our products—service—organization—and method of doing business.

Fruits and Vegetables From Every Clime

Come Through Hanley-Murphy Company, Wholesale Commission Merchants, of Janesville

TO supply an entire community with its daily quota of Fruits and Vegetables is no small task indeed.

More than twenty-five years ago this business was started in a small one-room store on South River street, by a young man with vision, a small stock of merchandise, a democrat wagon and mule—customers were few and far between.

The entire thought actuating the ambitious young man who was so bravely starting in his business venture was to give service plus.

Throughout the years that followed this policy of service plus has been rigidly followed and has won an outstanding success, so that now this company serves the entire section of Southern Wisconsin and its list of customers grows daily, has a payroll of more than $600 per week and employs 15 men steadily the year 'round.

The business has grown to such proportions that the arrival of several carloads of fruit and vegetables is a daily event—from every clime they come, Florida, California, the Dakotas, Idaho, the East and West Indies, South America, everywhere—for your dinner table.

Our finger is on the pulse of the market at all times—the service we render is as fast as modern transportation facilities can make it. Nothing is left undone to supply this community with fruits and vegetables in season and out of season.

Naturally it gives us pleasure to see any of our retail customers expand and the instance of the present development of Carr Brothers is no exception.

HOUSE BUILDING BOOKS ARE OFFERED—With the coming of spring and the consequent thought given to the building of new homes, the public library is displaying a new house planning and building monthly, containing plans and specifications for several types of buildings and suggestions as to furnishing. The March number may now be had, and others will appear during the year. Several other periodicals have been ordered and will be placed in the reading room as they arrive.

MANY PEOPLE LATE IN CASHING STAMPS—Unredeemed war savings certificates, some due Jan. 1, 1923, and others due the first of this year, come in to the local post office almost daily, it is stated by Postmaster J. J. Cunningham, who urges that they be redeemed at once. It is useless to hold them after maturity, as they do not bear interest. Post office officials believe they are held unintentionally, by persons who have mislaid them or forgotten they had purchased them. They are of ten found in the effects of deceased persons. It is not known how many certificates or what amount is still outstanding here, as the post office keeps no check on them.

4 MORE CITIES TO GET LOCAL POWER

Brodhead, Monroe, Albany and Martintown Added to Electric Line.

Within the next month, four additional cities in southern Wisconsin will be securing electrical power through the substitution of the Janesville Electric company from Prairie du Sac. Construction of the line from Orfordville to Monroe, to supply Brodhead and Monroe, and other lines to Albany and Martintown, has been in process for several months and all are nearing completion.

The line is of 22,000 volt capacity and will supply these towns, which have been dependent on power being secured from other cities. Brodhead has a municipal plant and there is a plant at Monroe. The line will be disconnected and used only as auxiliary plants in case of emergency.

Install Three Transformers. Three large kilovolt transformers have been received and will be installed during the next two or three weeks at the general substitution here to avoid facilities for handling and power for the new line. In Orfordville, two years ago Orfordville and Portville were added to the Janesville Electric company lines so that in making new additions to the line, it was necessary only to extend the line west to Brodhead, Monroe, and then to Albany and Martintown. Thirty-foot poles were built and now they hang.

Evansville will be assured of better service through a 12,000 volt line which will be cut over from the line to Albany, the line to Albany, and giving them two ways of securing current. The line will also be connected with the United Utilities and Illinois Northern Utilities company lines in Illinois, which are a part of the same interests controlling power facilities in this state.

Back into Regular Column. It is the recent tendency of North Dakota to get back into the regular republican column and to leave the non-republican leaders. The fact against the league has been with increasing success in the last two years and the victory of Mr. Coolidge emphasizes the extent to which the republicans have made inroads upon their opponents.

Should the forthcoming election be thrown into the hands of a party which has no candidate received a majority of the electoral votes, North Dakota's vote would be of vital importance and might even swing the election. For instance, the number of republican votes that would be cast by state delegations would be 22 as opposed to 21 democratic votes and five are tied. One state's vote would make a great deal of difference, especially since the battle of Minnesota and Wisconsin might be cast for La Follette.

Not Doubtful. North Dakota has been counted by some as doubtful, but both Representative Young and Senators of North Dakota are regulars, and since there are three representatives from North Dakota, the vote would be cast for Coolidge. There has been talk of a resignation by Representative Young to accept an appointment by the president as a member of the board of appraisers in New York, and if he resigned there would have to be a special election. Friends of the president have not been sure that a special election would result in their favor, but the result of the primary has been encouraging. Whether the chance will be made to run at this date but the North Dakota primary may have a bearing on the decision of Representative Young whether or not to resign.

Significant La Follette Vote. The La Follette vote in North Dakota is significant. It made no count. At the last minute his name was put on the ballot. His strength is therefore hardly indicated by the vote in the primary. Even legislation of course will have much to do with the La Follette campaign and an effort to win votes later on by a special appeal to the farmer might meet with a better response than it did a few days ago when the issue were not clear cut.

A candidate from New England is not expected to show much in the west, but Mr. Coolidge's former background is undoubtedly helping him. His triumph in North Dakota is counted as a good beginning by his managers.

Solid for McAdoo. The North Dakota democrats voted solidly for McAdoo although there is a factional fight in that state. The Green which Mr. McAdoo is running under Underwood will be made the basis for further discussions by the former secretary of the treasury to southern territory. McAdoo was born in the south so his friends are hoping that as an effort in the Underwood native campaign. The fight between these two able citizens is really a contest between a radical and conservative groups with McAdoo winning the support of the former and Underwood the latter.

THE GOLDEN AGE OF ISRAEL

COMMENT ON THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR MARCH 25, 1934.

Read 1 Kings, I to II inclusive
WM. SOUTHERN, JR.

Saul, the first King of Israel, ruled a kingdom of unorganized peasants who lived in tents, who were without learning and whose lives were crude and cruel. David ruled the same kingdom for forty years and welded it together, organized it, brought to it a love of song and learning which came from contact with the Phoenicians, ruled and labored for his country and his people and left a great kingdom and great wealth to his son, Solomon, a rich man's son, was an Oriental Monarch, inheriting a peaceful throne, wealth untold, thousands of servants and ruled as a despot.

If this article was intended as a story of Solomon it would have been headed "A Wise Man Who Was a Fool." It is intended as a brief survey of the time in which Solomon ruled, "The Golden Age of Israel."

Read the story as recorded in the first 11 chapters of 1 Kings. A parallel story is found in Chronicles, written from a different viewpoint. Our lesson text is a few verses taken from the last chapter of 11 Chronicles. In these few verses is written the wisest thing credited to King Solomon. God appeared to the young king and said to him "Ask what I will give thee," and Solomon replied, "Give me now wisdom and knowledge."

As our lives develop and while we are yet young in years, God asks each one of us what we want more than anything else. Most of us are like the old woman who was walking in the forest with her husband when a fairy appeared and told them they should make three wishes and their wishes would be granted. The wife said to wish first and she said, "I wish I had a pair of shoes." Her husband was so puffed by her wish that he immediately said, "I wish you had them in your mind," and then the wife made the third and last wish, "I wish I had them out again." And the fairy left them.

King Solomon stands a tall figure in an age of gold, luxury, vice and decadence. The hundreds of years in which the kingdom of Israel was building culminated in the forty years of his reign, and then the kingdom split and began to go down hill.

The country was prosperous, crops were good, nations nearby were weak and peaceful. Solomon did not have his people, who had won their freedom in forty years in the wilderness, groined under taxes and lived in poverty. It was a kingdom glittering in magnificence on the surface and rotten within.

When Solomon became King, the Ark of God was housed in a tent. The wise and devout Nathan who stood beside King David ministered to the sincere worship of God which was an heritage of the people from Shal. There was no great prophet who was able to stand at the side of Solomon. The Ark was magnificently housed in a golden temple. The choir was composed of 4,000 Levites and there were 250 direct-ors of music. Pomp and luxury and ritualism held sway in religion.

Perhaps there is a lesson here for us as we look back over the history of our own nation, conceived upon the high principles of a faith in God, the nation prospered under the direction of great men who lived and prayed. A log church, pulled by benches, was a temple of prayer. He built upon a religious foundation and we have built a wonderful nation. It is now in its golden age. There is no Solomon at Washington. Instead of an oriental despotism, we have democratic government. We have our great churches, our wonderful choirs, paid for their action, our ritualism and our wealth, we groined under taxes and are today unable to make our quota for foreign missions.

The Bible does not tell us how Solomon died. The Koran says that the old king, arrayed in his finest robes, with his golden crown upon his head and his ebony staff in his hand went into the temple and stood before the altar. And God touched him and he died. But the staff supported him and he stood in death before the altar. The people were afraid to touch the crowned king and he stood there for days as a painted figure, until a worm within the staff cut through, the staff broke and the king fell on his face and his golden crown rolled in the dust. This story seems symbolical of the fall of the kingdom over which Solomon ruled.

God grant that that we are not leaning on an ebony staff in which the destroying worm is working.

240 ACRES SOLD FOR STATE TAXES. Madison — Lands amounting to 240 acres in Price and Burnett counties were sold for taxes by the state land board on Thursday. The sale netted approximately $100. Several hundred acres of land were up for sale but no bids were received.

PROWLER SHOOT'S RAIL DETECTIVE. Trenton, N. J. — While questioning a prowler on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, Martin J. Gaffney, a railroad detective, was shot dead today.

PROPOSE JOINT MEMORIALS. Manila — Prominent Filipino and American veterans have expressed approval of a proposed plan for erection of tablets commemorative of the valor of the soldiers of both races on the battle fields of the American-Philippine war.

THE BLADE DOES NOT TELL US HOW SOLOMON DIED. The Koran says that the old king, arrayed in his finest robes, with his golden crown upon his head and his ebony staff in his hand went into the temple and stood before the altar. And God touched him and he died. But the staff supported him and he stood in death before the altar. The people were afraid to touch the crowned king and he stood there for days as a

Fairbanks-Morse Melon in Sight

New York — The Board of Directors of Fairbanks, Morse & Co., at the annual meeting next Tuesday, will submit a plan to stockholders calling for an increase in the authorized capital stock from $25,000 to $75,000 shares and for an issue of $12,500,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value.

If the increased stock is authorized, it is said, the directors contemplate the declaration of a stock dividend of $25 a share, payable in preferred stock. The stock dividend will be paid to holders of the 235,977 shares of 10 per value common stock now outstanding. It is also proposed to retire the $1,700,000 preferred stock outstanding.

The new issue of preferred stock will represent the company's first recapitalization of the accumulated surplus. The surplus at the close of 1933 approximated $17,000,000 and the preferred stock to be paid as a stock dividend totals $7,345,425, leaving a surplus of around $10,000,000.

The directors yesterday declared the regular dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, payable March 21 to stockholders of record March 20.

FRESH VEGETABLES FIND READY SALE

Greenstuffs Welcomed on Market—Bananas Becoming Scarce.

Fresh vegetables, with almost any variety obtainable, occupy the place of honor in dealers' windows this week. With only the usual kinds of fruits, most of which have been on the market since before Christmas, the spring foods are a refreshing sight. Most native summer vegetables, even to peas, carrots, beans and watercress, may be had, but at extremely variable prices.

On the more common kinds, however, the cost is relatively low, and the quality of all, with the possible exception of celery cabbage, which is nearly gone, and one or two others, is very good.

Among the vegetables which are selling well to housekeepers, who are looking for "something new" after the long period during which most of those offered were the hot house varieties, are: cucumbers at 25 cents each; strawberry rhubarb at 17 to 20 cents a bunch; asparagus at 15 to 18 cents a bunch; new Florida potatoes at 5 cents a pound; and new cabbage at 5 to 8 cents a pound.

Potato Prices Unchanged.
The potato market, after a decline extending over the past two or three weeks, has advanced slightly, but it has not affected retail prices, which remain at 25 to 30 cents a peck, or $1 to $1.10 a bushel.

Head lettuce is slightly higher, selling at 10 to 12 cents each, about two cents higher than a week ago. Spinners sell for 15 to 18 cents a bunch; heads and hearts, 10 cents a bunch; cauliflower, 20 to 30 cents each; rutabagas, 4 cents a pound; celery, two bunches for 25c, to 35 cents a bunch; chives, 15 cents a bunch; green onions and radishes, 10 cents a bunch; and green beans, 20 cents a pound.

Spanish onions remain at 10 cents a pound; cooking onions at 5 cents; and turnips, carrots and other winter vegetables at the usual prices, 4 to 5 cents. Many dealers are no longer handling some varieties, on account of the poorer quality, due to the late season of the season, and the small demand when fresh kinds are available. New Idaho potatoes, of uniform size for baking, will be on the market for Saturday, but the price has not been announced.

Banana Shortage Looms.

The recent rebellion in the Central American states has affected the banana market, according to wholesale dealers, who state that they are becoming very scarce. The retail price has not yet advanced, remaining at 12 1/2 to 15 cents a dozen. A 5 to 10 cent advance in strawberries has taken place this week, and they are now 70 to 75 cents a quart. Oranges, with Florida at 20 to 40 cents a dozen the best selling, are plentiful. Navels sell for 25 to 30 cents a dozen. Grapefruit at 5, 10 and 15 cents each, and apples at 5 to 10 cents a pound, according to variety, are the only other fruits to be had.

WEEDS CAUSE OF SNOW BLOCKADES

Keep Them Out, Engineer's Advice Given at Annual Road School.

Advance of the Rock county road system from the day of a few gravel roads to the present system of concrete and asphalt roads, was traced by H. L. Slavien, Janesville, first road commissioner for Rock county, during the road school held by the county highway commission in the court house here Thursday afternoon. There were 75 present, including supervisors, contractors, patrolmen and others interested in the road program.

Necessity of keeping the roads clear of weeds and undergrowth was detailed by H. E. Holmes, of the Wisconsin highway commission, who declared that 50 per cent of the snow stops in roads were caused by obstructions that stopped the snow in the fills and exposed stretches.

"Good construction and maintenance demands that the roads be kept clear of weeds," declared Holmes.

Changes in building details were given on the changes in specifications approved by the state, such as finer gravel and the change in concrete building from having an eight-inch center and six-inch edge to a seven-inch center and eight-inch edge. It is claimed experiments show that the edges of the concrete are the first to crack and with a center steel strip, thicker edges and an expansion joint required at the end of each day's run, less breaking is expected.

Details were urged to be courteous to the traveling public "since the public is paying the bill and has a perfect right to criticize."

Rock County Favored.

"Rock county is especially interested in keeping its roads in good condition since outside traffic is forced to come through this county in reaching the northern section," stated A. L. Hamrecht, division engineer. "You have the good roads to encourage this traffic to the benefit of the community."

Instructions on the 1924 program of work were detailed by Charles J. Moore, county road commissioner. Other talks were given on highway problems by C. N. Maurer, William Hoising, D. E. McCarthy, George Woodruff with H. T. Almsley, county committee chairman, presiding. It was the most successful road school held in Rock county.

McADOO GIVEN 320 GEORGIA DELEGATES

(By Associated Press.)

Atlanta—Related returns today in the Georgia democratic presidential primary brought William G. McAdoo's probable total voting strength in the state convention to 329 delegates. I Use a Cream

Which France perfected—the finest ever known
By Edna Wallace Hopper

France gave to me, many years ago, the finest cold cream in existence. It helped to make me a famous beauty—the rage of New York. And now, after 40 years as a stage star, it is still my beauty ally.

Many young girls envy my complexion. And my youthful bloom at my age is the marvel of millions of women. Now I have arranged to supply to all the very things which made me what I am.

A fruity cream
I call this cream my Youth Cream. It contains both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to soften, whiten, feed and smooth the skin.

No woman I know has ever found anything to so foster the fine texture of the skin. Whatever cream you have used before, my Youth Cream will amaze you.

HIGHWAY OPENING PROJECT PUSHED

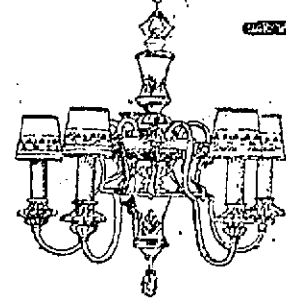

(By Associated Press.)

Milwaukee—The campaign for snow removal started by the Wisconsin state automobile association some months ago, is being aggressively waged throughout the state, according to officials.

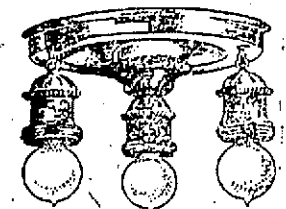

It is the present plan of the officers of the association to encourage local organizations of merchants, clubs to the end that a practical public sentiment may be developed in favor of open roads 12 months of the year.

"The activity of the state association to obtain legislation for the purpose of keeping our highways open 12 months in the year," says James T. Drought, Milwaukee, president, "is creating widespread comment and interest in every section of Wisconsin. Our investment in roads is so great and the development of automobile traffic has reached the point where it is quite imperative that the avenues of travel be kept open if it is at all economically possible."

STUDENT MISSIONS SESSION OPENED

Sixth Annual Wisconsin Conference Convened at University.

Janeville.—The sixth annual Wisconsin student conference for foreign missions convened here today, with representatives from a majority of the leading colleges and universities of the state in attendance. The session will continue tomorrow and Sunday.

Discussion of problems of foreign missions, particularly as related to student life and work, will take place during the session. The conference is sponsored by the student volunteer union of Wisconsin and is an outgrowth of the student volunteer conference in Indianapolis recently.

The purpose of the conference is to bring together all students interested in foreign missions with leaders who have worked in foreign fields and national religious workers and leaders.

Prominent leaders who are on the program of the conference include: Dr. L. A. Sherry, president of Lutheran Theological seminary, Maywood, Ill.; Rev. William English, China missionary; Rev. Charles Braden, former missionary to China; Rev. W. J. L. Smith, India; Miss Agnes La Porte, Hawaii; and Rev. C. A. Phillips, South American missionary.

University student workers are in charge of the conference.

CARR'S WEST SIDE STORE COMPLETED

long and 48 feet wide, and all the walls, from ceiling to floor are filled with new stock. A complete line of groceries, fresh fruits and vegetables, and smoked and dried meats will be carried. The policy of the company, "best grade of goods for the very lowest possible prices," which has been carried out in the old store on North Main street, will be taken to the new store.

Many Clerks Employed.
A new store, four stories high, capable of holding about one car load, has been built, and four brands of flour will be carried in stock. It is planned to employ about 12 clerks in the new establishment, while the stock room on the second floor, which is planned to open in about six weeks, is finished. In the two double stores now occupying the corner, about 25 clerks will be employed.

The policy of buying from produce, which has been one of the factors in making the North Main street store popular, will be followed in the new store. Both stores will be operated on the same plan.

Stock Well Arranged.
Arrangement of the stock has been given considerable attention, and presents an attractive appearance. Canned vegetables and fruits, of which a huge amount have been purchased, together with package foods, take up most of the shelf space, while the entire front of the store has been given over to the display of fruits and vegetables. The four large windows, three looking onto River street, and one onto Dodge street, will be used for their showing.

A roomy storage place for surplus has been provided in the rear of the store. Considerably more floor space will be provided when the second is opened. It is planned to equip a rest room and other modern facilities there.

Ample space to accommodate a large trade has been provided in the two wide aisles in the store, divided by the row of supporting pillars. Shelving, new built with products, has been placed around each aisle, with wide shelves at the bottom, and smaller ones toward the top.

The owners place special emphasis on the freshness of the stock, and state that everything going into the new store has been purchased especially for it.

SIMON GIVEN TWO YEARS' SENTENCE

"Millionaire Kid" Goes to Leavenworth on Mail Fraud Conviction.

Milwaukee.—While Nicholas Simon, Jr., charged from "millionaire kid" to prisoner when Federal Judge P. A. Geiger sentenced him to two years at Leavenworth penitentiary on a charge of mail fraud yesterday, the names of three prominent stock and bond brokers, one of them formerly of Milwaukee, were revealed as co-defendants in the two indictments returned by the federal grand jury charging conspiracy to violate the postal laws in operation of the Simon Cheese company.

The three brokers are: Joseph P. Kovorka, former head of a brokerage house here; Casper Stubb and John F. Criss, both of Chicago.

According to Giles F. Clark, assistant United States attorney, who represented the government in presenting the Simon Cheese case before the grand jury and in court, the brokers all took part in stock sales in an alleged conspiracy to defraud investors out of approximately $500,000.

It was the culmination of seven years of activities, during which Simon handled hundreds of thousands of dollars, spent lavishly and was given the sobriquet of "millionaire kid" by his friends in Chicago. He told a straight forward story in court and took pains to draw the line distinction that his operations did not consist of a premeditated conspiracy to defraud, but an incidental conspiracy in that the facts of the indictment were true.

Simon was to be taken to the federal penitentiary Friday in the custody of Marshal William Phillips.

LA FOLLETTE HOPES SHAKE AS M'ADOO LOOMS IN STATE DEMOCRAT IS POWERFUL FIGURE AS PRIMARY DRAWS NEAR.

HOLDS RAIL VOTE Brotherhoods Feel Their Best Friend Is Former Treas- ury Chief.

[JANESVILLE TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison—McAdoo, the powerful, looms to bother the managers of the La Follette delegate campaign. He has destroyed the greatest machine built up for the senior senator and the one to which, more than any other, should be given the credit for the victory in 1922. The railroad men of Wisconsin were for La Follette, organized the central broadcasting stations in 1922 and carried the heavy load in the primary and election campaigns. There was the money which made the campaign possible and their organization which packed the meeting places. In the larger centers, where fear was expressed that the senator would not be a winner.

But this year things are different. The attitude of the organized railroad men is that the senator is not vitally interested in the delegate campaign, since he has no hope of being named as a presidential candidate at the Cleveland convention. The one big friend of the railroad men, according to themselves, is McAdoo. He has a chance for the nomination as president when La Follette has none. He needs every vote he can get and a large aid to him would be the Wisconsin delegation of 26. So they intend to back the La Follette delegates and vote the democratic primary ballot on which are the names of the McAdoo delegates. If McAdoo loses, they fear that they will again have another chance at La Follette if he becomes a candidate on a third party ticket.

Strong for Democracy.
All over the state railroad men are organizing for McAdoo. If La Follette were a candidate for the senate, the same organizations would be for him. They say they have done their duty by La Follette when they sent him back to the senate in 1922. Now they have a real chance to get a candidate for themselves and they intend to vote for him. They see no hope of getting anywhere with a La Follette delegation at the republican national convention. The La Follette delegates are divided on the question of Blaine for governor. The railroad men takes his politics seriously and he is watching closely the things are going at the state capital.

The primary vote in such elections as the one this spring calls for but little voting in the rural districts. The vote will be heavy. Not over a third of the 1,500,000 voters are looked for at the polls.

Heavy City Vote.
The railroad men are found in the cities and, with their vote going heavily for McAdoo, the worried leaders of the La Follette state candidates can readily be understood. If McAdoo should be nominated, the railroad men have no doubt about carrying Wisconsin for him, even though a third party candidate is in the field. The attitude of the rail brotherhoods in the preliminary meetings for formation of groups which eventually might be drawn into a third party has been one of aloofness since they have hoped all along that McAdoo would win and, if so, they would be found aligned solidly behind him.

True Story of Woodrow Wilson

Cruz as a reprisal for the insult to American blue-jackets.
Mr. Wilson did not issue the order for the seizure of Vera Cruz until the day that bloodshed would follow. It had been given the idea in the reports from John Lind, his envoy, that the customs house at Vera Cruz could be seized without the loss of a life. Resistance from the Mexicans had not been expected, but the whole enterprise with its consequent loss of Mexican and American lives made upon Mr. Wilson's mind a profound impression of tragedy. He could not rid himself of the thought that Mexico was a weak country and that the United States might have found some other way of satisfying pride. Although there were interests desirous of intervention and Mr. Wilson was criticized for not ordering the American expeditionary force to proceed to Mexico City, no such plan ever received his sanction. He believed there was such a thing as a nation proud to fight a neighbor as weak and helpless as Mexico, however irritating the cause. Woodrow Wilson's forbearance with respect to Mexico in latter days was to no small extent prompted by his regret over the Vera Cruz tragedy.

The author attended the conference at Niagara Falls in the early part of 1911, in which the diplomatic representatives of Argentina, Brazil and Chile endeavored to mediate between the United States and Mexico and the United States government. The ultimatum of Huerta was a foregone conclusion. Mr. Wilson did contribute toward that end and to some extent was of assistance to the Carranza faction in achieving military supremacy when the Huerta regime came to an end.

What might have happened if the European war had not broken out in 1914, can not be conjectured because the entire policy of the United States toward Mexico from that time forward was influenced again by the relation of the Mexican problem to world events. It is true that pressure from the European powers for a settlement of pending problems with Mexico eased up considerably with their minds concentrated on the huge developments of a world war. Hardly had Carranza, with his lieutenant, General Obregon, reached Mexico City and begun to establish a government, when the destruction of Pancho Villa in the north frustrated the hopes of internal peace below the Rio Grande. It was not until the summer of 1915 that the Carranza faction was able to achieve dominance and mastery from a military viewpoint.

Hope again to enlist the cooperation of the Latin American governments, Mr. Wilson, through Secretary Lansing, told before the diplomatic representatives of the Pan-American countries a proposal whereby elections might be held in Mexico and a compromise effected between the Carranza and Villa forces. It was at this point that the author, by reason of his close friendship with some members of the diplomatic corps and his familiarity with the Mexican viewpoint, was in a position to bring together the Carranza envoys and some of the Latin American diplomats, most of whom took the stand that until all factions in Mexico invited outside mediation it would be futile to attempt to supervise an election or negotiate a settlement. Finally the author was assigned by the Associated Press to visit Vera Cruz and discuss with General Carranza the proposal that had been made by the United States government for a peace conference in which all the chieftains in Mexico would participate. Both President Wilson and Secretary Lansing were apprized of the author's mission. In fact they were instrumental in having the journey brought about, their idea being that one who had the confidence of the Mexican authorities and who was in no way connected with the United States government, might be able to present impartially a view of the situation that would appeal to General Carranza.

Several days conference at Vera Cruz developed some interesting information. The principal item of which was that General Carranza, with the typical adroitness of his Spanish mind, sensed the importance of German aid, particularly as it appeared to him likely that Mexico could play the United States against Germany and the allies against Germany, and thus obtain the support desired and ultimate recognition.

The author discovered on that trip to Vera Cruz in 1915 an intimacy altogether too close between the German minister to Mexico who had all but recognized the existing government, and General Carranza himself. It was a symptom of what developed in 1917, when the famous Zimmerman note was intercepted and the plot of the German foreign office to link Mexico with Japan against the United States was exposed.

Returning to Washington in the autumn of 1917 with a full report of his investigation in Mexico, the author recommended that the most effective way to counteract German influence and prevent Mexico being used as a base for hostilities especially in the event the United States entered the war, was to recognize the Carranza administration and formalize the relations between the United States and Mexico insisting upon the proper insurance of the protection of life and of property of American citizens. These assurances were given in writing and recognition was extended by the United States after consultation with the diplomatic representatives of the Latin American countries. The United States hoped that the extension of recognition would encourage Carranza more friendly and would eliminate German influence. Unfortunately the bandit depredations of Pancho Villa in the north upset all plans and with the outlawed bandit actually crossing the American boundary line and raiding Columbus, N. M., it seemed as if the prevention for war which the Germans had been hoping would develop, had come at last. The United States during the first two years of her neutrality had become the arsenal for the allies, supplying munitions and guns. The German plan was to divert the supply of war material from Europe to an American army engaged in a war against the Rio Grande. Mr. Wilson's decision to send a punitive expedition after Pancho Villa was criticized in Mexico, but the public opinion in the United States in 1915 would have countenanced no other action, especially because Mr. Wilson was already being accused of vacillation and weakness in his foreign policy in dealing with Germany as a consequence of the sinking of the Lusitania and other American vessels by German submarines.

Mr. Wilson occasionally exhibited a sardonic humor. He issued the order to General Pershing to organize an expedition and for several days declined to interfere in the actual plans of the expedition, believing that the men in the war department who had been clamoring for an opportunity to show their mettle would now have plenty of chance to show what they could do in getting an expedition under way in quick time. Mr. Wilson gave the war department a free hand and watched with an amusement understandable only by those who heard his comment from time to time the efforts of thousands of American troops to catch a single bandit.

Somewhere in the Wilsonian makeup there was a streak of admiration for his opponents and he could not help but express himself once about the daring of Pancho Villa. Something of the same humor in Mr. Wilson came out as he ordered the military winging cleverly in his effort to outwit the American government. The truth is Mr. Wilson liked the fighting man.

As things developed, it was fortunate that the war department was given a chance to bestir itself in the Mexican expedition for there were even greater demands not many months later when the United States finally entered the war. From this time on, of course, the policy of the United States toward Mexico was one of tolerance. Although the neutrality of the Carranza government was often questioned by the authorities in Washington and there were rumors anore of wireless stations in Mexico through which spies were believed to be operating and plans were being under a ferment trouble with the United States, there is little likelihood that the United States would have been diverted very seriously from its huge task overseas by any such thing as happened below the Rio Grande.

When the European war was over the Mexican policy continued to be one of opportunism, while friction between Washington and Mexico City did not cease, the danger of hostilities between the two countries suddenly began to disappear. Whether the existence of a huge American army ready for any emergency made any change in the situation below the Rio Grande and developed a more practical spirit or whether public opinion in the United States had had its fill of bloodshed or whether the returning troops were indifferent about further service, none of these views can be deemed conclusive because of the overshadowing importance of the European war.

What might have happened if the European war had not broken out in 1914, can not be conjectured because the entire policy of the United States toward Mexico from that time forward was influenced again by the relation of the Mexican problem to world events. It is true that pressure from the European powers for a settlement of pending problems with Mexico eased up considerably with their minds concentrated on the huge developments of a world war. MOTHERS' PENSIONS
AWARDED TO THREE
Three new names were added to the list of mothers receiving aid for dependent children, following hearings conducted before Judge J. L. Maxwell Thursday afternoon. One woman with four children was awarded $10 a month pension; a second with two children was given $25; and a third, with one child, was awarded $10. The hearings are conducted the first and third Thursdays of every month.

LOSER THREE IN ONE
Genevieve—Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league of nations, recently returned from a tour of central European states, minus a coat, waistcoat and pair of trousers. It developed that the trousers were mislaid in Rumania, the coat in Hungary and the waistcoat in Italy.
